“ My best memories of Andrea Ray are the many sleepovers when you, Jessie, Pid, and Chico stayed at your Aunt's next door. We met when I was just 4 years old and became instant friends. I learned how to ride my first bike without training wheels with you. Then when we reconnected in middle school, I remember smoking in the bathroom and the numerous times we turned the lights out on Mr. Harshbarger while he was teaching (maybe you can do the lights out on him in Heaven), the many, many laughs. I will always love you Andrea and I wish I would have been successful finding you years ago.

“ I honestly am at a loss for words. She would always know what to say and never hesitate to say it. I can't think of many childhood memories that don't involve her and her family. She was at my very first time at most things and I will forever keep her alive in my often told stories of “why I am the way I am today.” She taught me to speak out, be strong, not take any crap from anyone, do what makes me happy, say no to people when I wanted, and just live life to the fullest. She was always there when I needed a reminder of who I was or if I needed to run away from who I was and remember who I used to be. Forever in my heart ❤️ Andrea.

I will remember Andrea when she was small. I love all of her family. She ate many meals at my house, fried green tomato. She was a good kid. Heaven has gained an angel. God bless.
