“ It was my honor to attend Don's Funeral Service earlier this week. We had been good friends at HEHS along with Vernon Minor, Fred Shope, Ted Hanshaw, Jim Bills, Larry Swann, Jack Stewart, Bill Hanna and several other guys. I was the only one who didn't live in Guyandotte, but they let me tag along with them to church and lots other activities because, since my Dad was a mechanic, I always had a car. We'd often leave HEHS and get lunch at Stewart's Root Beer stand or Lincoln Junior High because it had a great cafeteria.. After graduation in 1952, I started at Marshall College, while Don and Vernon got jobs at the Nickel Plant. After H.S., Don got involved in boxing and I think he was the Golden Gloves Novice Heavyweight Champion, but I can't remember if that was while I was in Marshall or in 1954 after I was drafted into the U.S. Army? I know Don was a quiet champion who didn't boast about his many accomplishments, but I'm sorry that so many of his later friends never knew about his boxing career. While there was a photo of him in the ring, I was disappointed that there was no mention of his incredible championship success in his obituary. He must have had a trophy or belt for his Championship title, but in his own humble way, I doubt that he ever bragged about it. Rest in peace, brother Don, and blessing and consolation to your beloved family which I never had an opportunity to meet until I attended his funeral service.
