“ Jill was probably the most selfless person I'll ever know. I was always proud that she was my sister. Jill worked hard to make holiday's and just life better for everyone lucky enough to have her in their lives. It would be easy to wish for a few do-overs and the chance to tell her how important she always was. Jill took life as it came and people as they were. Because she was upbeat, positive, and understanding, I don't think she needed words to know how much she meant. ”

“ Although I hadn't seen my cousins for decades, I am eternally grateful for their gracious and critical assistance with the burial and funeral services for my dad (Asa "Cork" Eddy). Their generosity, competence, kindness, and humility was, and is, appreciated, and truly honors and reflects those attributes of their incredible mother, Jenny, and dad, Jack. Jill was the only person who could talk as fast as my late sister Kim, without apparently breathing. I think both of them must have had hidden gills or something! Jill's holiday meals (which my dad loved so much) showed her love for people, her deep faith, her infinite kindness, and her profound generosity. Jill was so much like her mom, that it was like talking to my aunt Jenny when we spoke, but just a lot faster. I will truly miss talking to Jill, who epitomized the down-to-earth attitude and down-home wisdom of what we call kin. God Bless you Jill!
