“ It is with great sadness for you and your family, Macil, that I find myself here on this site, but I am so happy that Mike is free of his pain and anxiety and depression! He TRULY fought the "good fight" with strength and bravery, and I like to think that he is enjoying his rest and wonder in his new amazing surroundings. God's peace to you and your family, and Godspeed Mike! We did not meet in person here on this earth, but I felt as if I knew you because of Macil's faithful, loving posts and updates, and of course the terrible disease that we share/shared. I know we will meet someday, perhaps sooner than later, and I just want you to know what an inspiration you have been. Rest in Peace, Brave Serviceman. Terrie Blankenship

“ I want to send my sincere condolences to Macil and her family. I wish I had the words to say that would help you through the sadness you are now facing, but all I can do right now is offer any help you might need, and pray for God's comfort and peace to surround you. Chief Petty Officer Melton, in our time-honored US Navy tradition, I wish you "Fair winds and following seas"...stand down, shipmate, we'll take it from here.
